Description

This design has evolved from the design house of NORM Architects who were inspired on travels through fabulous cities of Barcelona, Paris and New York where they saw streetlights with characteristic cast iron tops which looked a bit like a hat with semi transparent glass at the base. Back in the studio Kasper and Jonas transferred the shape and materials combination to create a outstanding indoor pendant light. Made from glass and marble the two architects were keen to use stone to create a light and this unusual use of the material gives the lamp a durability and exceptional sense of quality. The overall shape of the Mass light is strong and masculine, yet feminine curves soften the expression. Also available as individual pendant version.
