Description

The catch chair is Jaime Hayon's first contribution to &tradition's fabulous furniture collection, and is a chair that welcomes you with open arms. It's armrests extend from the shell like literal limbs, ready to embrace you as you sit down. In addition to being a witty personification, it is also an eye-catching piece of design. Serpentine lines give it a playful lightness that is counterbalanced by a sturdy, well-balanced base and legs that ensure maximum comfort.

The shell consists of moulded polyurethane foam with a metal frame and glass fiber reinforcements.

Each chair is covered in cold cured foam, and finally, textile upholstery, the shell offers comfort alongside great variability. With multiple textile upholstery options available from Camira, Gabriel (see Catch chair JH1 - Fabric Band 2) and Kvadrat (see Catch chair JH1 - Fabric Band 3), and two different options for the legs (white oiled oak or stained black oak), Catch can be adapted to almost any colour scheme and is also available in leather or customer's own material, please contact customer services for further details.

Fabric band 1: The Camira Blazer fabric range is made from 100% Laneve wool, all sustainably produced and traceable right back to the individual farms in New Zealand. This contemporary fabric has a great palette.
