Description

The Flos "Wan" lamp takes its name from a Japanese word for bowl. The most essential of all containers, in its many forms and materials in every culture and historical periods, it is perhaps the object that is most associated with mankind and survival.

Wan is a bowl of light from Flos lighting which was designed by Johanna Grawunder in 2005.

Available as a wall or ceiling fixture it provides direct lighting. It has an aluminum body, and is available in chrome, shiny white, enamelled green, or shiny black finish, complete with a low glare shield provided by two different rings and tempered glass, in black.

Requires 1 x MAX 33W G9 HSGS bulb (not included)

Voltage required 220/240, terminal block supply.
