Description

The Normann Copenhagen Ding table is inspired by ancient three-dimensional wooden brain teaser puzzles. The table consists quite simply of three legs made from oak that are assembled without screws and tools of any kind. When put together the legs create a visual sculptural knot that works as the base for a stylish glass tabletop. The legs are rounded off with chamfered edges, making the table stand sturdily on the floor and the round sheet of glass sit solidly on the base. Each Ding table is available with a choice of three different types of legs. Easy to assemble without use of any tools.
