Description

Squared cross-shaped blush pink and taupe contemporary wool rug. Make the finishing touches to your design scheme with the Gandia Blasco rug collection. Inventively created by Spanish-based architect, Patricia Urquiolola for Gandia Blasco, this jumper-like rug is a comforting addition to give your contemporary space the comforts of home. Designed by skilled artisans in India, the Plait Square Pink Rug forms part of Gandia Blasco's iconic Mangas rug collection. Perfectly suited to both traditional and contemporary interiors, the Mangas collection draws influence from nostalgic 1970s knitwear. A charming alternative to the conventional rectangle shaped rug, the rug features cut-outs at each corner to give it more of a cross shape. The knitted wool is weaved in tones of blush pink and cool grey which combine in harmony with a border of warm taupe and accenting salmon pink trim. Great to enhance an on-trend pastel Scandic look, place in the entrance hallway to warm your wooden flooring and complete the look in style.
