Description

Artichoke copper sculptural pendant lamp.

Designed by one of the world's finest architects, Poul Henningsen, over 40 years ago, this all-embracing architectural structure takes inspiration from the humble artichoke bloom.

A classical design icon, Artichoke filters 100% glare-free lighting through a pointed LED light source to achieve maximum ambience with minimum energy emissions.

Constructed from a robust steel frame, this sculptural masterpiece displays 72 precisely positioned leaves from 12 unique rows of 6 leaves each.

Decorative and comforting, the first Artichokes were first developed for the Langelinie Pavilion Restaurant in Copenhagen, where they are still hanging today.
